110	Source for above 108 radicals - Zhang Pengpeng, The Most Common Chinese Radicals, Sinolingua, 2001 ISBN 978-7-80052-576-6
111	Book purchased through www.homabooks.com at a cost of about $13.00. Homabooks is a good source for Chinese language study books. This book is one of three in a series of books: Intensive Spoken Chinese (oral course - 1,000 commonly used words), The Most Common Chinese Radicals (writing course - 144 radicals), and Rapid Literacy in Chinese (comprehensive course - uses 750 commonly used Chinese characters and 1,300 words formed from them to make 25 short sentences, 25 conversational dialogues and 4 narrative pieces) based on the approach that in the initial stages of learning Chinese, "spoken Chinese" and "character recognition and writing" should be taught (and learned) separately. Per the author, beginners who have completed Intensive Spoken Chinese and The Most Common Chinese Radicals can then proceed to Rapid Literacy in Chinese.
112	Column B of this spreadsheet shows the page number for the radical from The Most Common Chinese Radicals. The book provides information about the radical including to what the characters with this radical mostly refer as well as the location of the radical as well as the evolution of the radical from ancient times. The book also provides sample uses of the radical. The radicals shown in bold are radicals that also are a word (e.g., the radical ren2 used with characters that mostly refer to human beings and is also the word "person").

113				Darrell Ament participates on Sundays in the Chinese class that meets from 8:30 to 9:30AM at the RMBC Tyler Baptist Church. Darrell, together with two other Sunday class members, Vic Moral and Tom Mullin, decided to meet at 9AM Tuesdays for further Chinese study. In addition to using Chinese Pod and other tools for oral learning, Darrell, Vic and Tom are working on writing and reading Chinese. They decided to work first on the 108 radicals from The Most Common Chinese Radicals book. Darrell prepared this Excel spreadsheet for practicing the 108 radicals. Darrell also recommended, and Vic and Tom concurred, that their Tuesday study group also use the "Wenlin Institute, Inc" 39 basic strokes instead of the limited 8 basic strokes shown in the The Most Common Chinese Radicals book. To see all 39 of the Wenlin strokes go to the "Core CDL Resources" at www.wenlin.com/cdl and then select "Set of Basic Stroke Types". Darrell uses the Wenlin software (currently version 3.4.1) as tool for studying Chinese - go to www.wenlin.com to learn more about the software. Columns D and E of this spreadsheet show use of the Wenlin strokes.
114				TIP: Download a free trial version of IQChinese Pinyin from www.iqchinese.com - it is a EXCELLENT tool to learn and then test your skill in understanding the pinyin sounds (I own a copy). It is $35 to buy online - I bought at JW North HS in Riverside for $10.
